

Zurich shortlisted for UK National Sustainability Award!

We are delighted to hear that one of ESC's sponsors – Zurich – has been shortlisted for a prestigious UK sustainability award for the second successive year!

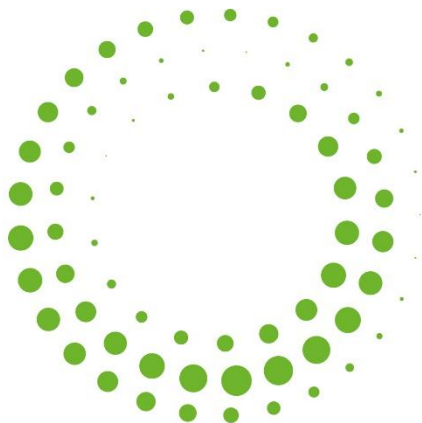

The leading global life insurer – which has offices at Zurich House, Isle of Man Business Park and a history on the Island spanning more than 40 years – is in the running to win the 'Transformation' category in the annual National Sustainability Awards. The centrepiece of its awards submission is the solar power system at Zurich House in the Isle of Man which went live in July last year. This is on track to provide around 70% of the office's annual electricity needs.

Zurich is one of four organisations that are shortlisted for the Transformation Award. The others are Arla Foods UK, Capital Dynamics, and The Leeds Teaching Hospitals NHS Trust. Zurich was shortlisted in the 'Major Project of the Year' category last year.

The National Sustainability Awards attract entries from hundreds of leading private and public sector organisations. There are 23 different categories this year, all of which celebrate innovation and best practice in sustainability, renewable energy and conservation. Zurich on the Isle of Man are no strangers to featuring in sustainability awards – last year they won the 'Energy' category in the UNESCO Biosphere Isle of Man Awards.

Everyone in the ESC team will be keeping their fingers crossed for Zurich when the National Sustainability Award winners are announced at a gala dinner in London on October 5th! Good luck!
